This panel presents the conception, curatorial framework, and outcomes of the inaugural Baroque Theater and "Theater Dissection" festival in Mexico City, a collaboration among the Secretaría de Cultura del Gobierno de México, the Centro Cultural Helénico, and the Universidad del Claustro de Sor Juana marking the 330th anniversary of Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz. We reflect on how the partnership shaped repertoire, and public programs, and how the "Theater Dissection" laboratory invited artists and scholars to anatomize Baroque texts through contemporary performance practice. Case studies include: Fuenteovejuna. Breve tratado sobre las ovejas domésticas; La cueva de Salamanca; Segismunda; and Tempo Barroco. Panelists will share excerpts from the festival and open a discussion on sustaining baroque repertoires for contemporary audiences in Mexico City and beyond.

Performing Fuenteovejuna in Fuente Obejuna: A Living Theatrical Tradition

Performances of Lope de Vega's Fuenteovejuna in the town of Fuente Obejuna, in the province of Córdoba, date back to 1935, when the play was staged to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the playwright's death. A significant change took place in 1992, when the inhabitants of Fuente Obejuna began taking part in the cast and assuming the principal roles. Since then, the production has been performed by the people of the town, a practice that continues today.

In 2018, the production was declared a Bien de Interés Cultural, recognizing its historical, artistic, and cultural value. This designation acknowledges both the tangible and intangible heritage associated with Fuente Obejuna, including the legendary story of Fuente Obejuna and the distinctive theatrical tradition through which the inhabitants of the town stage Lope de Vega's Fuenteovejuna.

Attending a performance of Fuenteovejuna in Fuente Obejuna offers a unique experience, allowing spectators to engage with the history of the town whose resistance to tyranny inspired one of Lope de Vega's most celebrated works.

The most recent production, staged from August 18 to 22, 2026, under the direction of José Carlos Cuevas and Pedro Hofhuis, included the character of Lope de Vega as a tribute to the theater of Spain's Golden Age.

Fuenteovejuna en Fuente Obejuna por Fuente Obejuna

Las representaciones de Fuenteovejuna de Lope de Vega en Fuente Obejuna, provincia de Córdoba, se remontan a 1935, con motivo del III Centenario de la muerte del autor madrileño (1635). A partir de 1992 los vecinos del pueblo empezaron a implicarse en el reparto asumiendo los papeles principales, acontecimiento que supuso un antes y un después en la representación por cuanto adquiere el carácter de evento de participación popular que es seña de identidad desde entonces. Ya en 2018 fue declarada oficialmente Bien de Interés Cultural, título que protege su valor histórico, artístico y cultural, destacando su patrimonio material e inmaterial, como la propia leyenda y la singular representación teatral.

Asistir a ver Fuenteovejuna en Fuente Obejuna es una experiencia única en España que permite al espectador viajar en el tiempo y conocer la verdadera historia de un pueblo que se rebeló contra la tiranía y que inmortalizaría Lope en unas de sus obras más emblemáticas.

Del 18 al 22 de agosto de 2026 se representó la última edición, dirigida por José Carlos Cuevas y Pedro Hofhuis, quienes incluyeron al personaje de Lope de Vega en un claro homenaje al teatro del Siglo de Oro.

8:30 Amar después de la muerte

“España es el país más fuerte del mundo. Siglo tras siglo tratando de destruirse a sí misma y todavía no lo ha conseguido”. Esta frase, atribuida a Otto von Bismarck, ha definido a la perfección la idiosincrasia de una nación empeñada en aniquilarse a sí misma. Con Amar después de la muerte, Calderón de la Barca nos emplaza en un momento histórico de máxima tensión entre los convivientes de aquella España: La Rebelión de las Alpujarras (1568-1571). Una desgarradora tragedia sobre un amor truncado por la guerra, pero también la historia de un pueblo y de un episodio que no merece ser olvidado. Sus temas resuenan aún hoy y abordan cuestiones de clase, conflictos intergeneracionales, justicia e integración social.

Roundtable: “Radio Comedia: Diversifying the Classics with Podcasts and Audio Drama”

Moderadora Laura Muñoz, Colorado Mesa University

Participantes Marta Albalá Pelegrín, California State Polytechnic University, Pomona
Rebecca Smith, University of California, Los Angeles
Katerina Levinson, Stanford University

This roundtable explores the process and pedagogical potential of adapting comedias into audio drama and podcast formats. Members of Diversifying the Classics, a UCLA-based initiative dedicated to revitalizing Hispanic Golden Age theater, share insights into producing works such as an audioplay of Ana Caro’s Valor, agravio y mujer and a new musical production of Calderón’s Amar después de la muerte, in collaboration with Spanish company Jóvenes Clásicos. Recently, the Radio Comedia team, led by Marta Albalá Pelegrín, has begun expanding its production efforts towards younger audiences with Radio Entremés, adaptations of entremeses for children, and with materials for teaching comedia. Panelists will reflect on strategies for choosing and adapting texts, technical and collaborative aspects of audio production, and the educational opportunities made possible by podcast-style presentations. The session will also discuss the integration of performance with interviews and teaching materials for diverse student audiences, positioning radio drama as a vital tool for expanding access to Spanish classical theater as well as fostering transatlantic artistic exchange.

Introducción: Valerie Hegstrom, AHCT President

Cutting-Edge Comedia

The theater world often creates unwarranted distinctions between classical theater on the one hand and avant-garde or postdramatic work on the other. How can we as scholars support and visibilize work that eschews these distinctions to bring comedia fully into the now? This talk surveys partnerships and projects that engage theatermakers of all stripes in a vibrant dialogue with an endlessly generative corpus, and explores the techniques that help bring the corpus to contemporary audiences.

Barbara Fuchs is Distinguished Professor of Spanish and English at UCLA, where she also directs the Diversifying the Classics project and serves as Associate Dean for Public and Engaged Humanities. She has published widely on early modern literature and culture as well as contemporary performance. Recent books include Fuente Ovejuna, an adaptation for children of Lope de Vega's play (UANL, 2026), Knowing Fictions: Picaresque Reading in the Early Modern Hispanic World (Penn, 2021) and Theater of Lockdown: Digital and Distanced Performance in a Time of Pandemic (Bloomsbury 2021). She is an editor of the Norton Anthology of World Literature, and recently completed her term as Articles Editor for Renaissance Quarterly.

4:00 Golden Tongues

Golden Tongues is a collaboration between Diversifying the Classics and Playwrights' Arena. Since 2013, the Golden Tongues initiative has commissioned and staged new adaptations in English of Hispanic classical plays by Los Angeles playwrights.

Donde comen dos, comen tres* by Abe Zapata jr.

Adapted from Lope de Vega's El perro del hortelano

Set in Los Angeles during the 1940s, this adaptation takes Lope de Vega's playful and mischievous Golden Age comedy and infuses it with Mexican-American tradition. Donde comen dos, comen tres shows life on a family farm turned upside down after its owner passes away.

Danna, who inherits the farm, is not quite sure what she wants from life. When her childhood best friend, Marcia, arrives to help her settle the estate and begins a relationship with farmhand Guillermo, Danna decides she must break them up. Will her cunning plans, rooted in love and jealousy, tear them apart? Will Danna's own desire find a place?

7:00 La Celestina: An Illuminated Lecture by theatre dybbuk

In this Illuminated Lecture with theatre dybbuk, Professor Barbara Fuchs addresses La Celestina, an extraordinary text from an extraordinary time. Written in Spain at the turn of the sixteenth century, soon after the expulsion of the Jews, La Celestina gives powerful voice to marginal characters somehow central to every exchange and transaction— wily go-betweens, panders, and disaffected servants. Along the way, it asks radically uncomfortable questions of its society and our own: what do we owe each other, especially across lines of class or gender? How do we make room for ourselves, when society has already decided on our place? In a time of profound dislocation, how do we find meaning in the world? A mix of manifesto and cautionary tale, bawdy story and philosophical meditation, La Celestina haunts us with its devastating insight.

The event combines scholarship about this classic presented by Dr. Barbara Fuchs with performances by actors from theatre dybbuk.

8:30 Canciones de Olmedo

Canciones de Olmedo es una adaptación musical de El caballero de Olmedo de Lope de Vega. Basándonos en la musicalidad propia del verso, hemos concebido este espectáculo con diez canciones originales y una puesta de escena enmarcada en un club musical de los años 50. Una reminiscencia del aroma que emanan los versos del Fénix de los Ingenios, un canto melancólico y nostálgico al amor y al desamor.
